Quote-Acrostic

Edited by Charles Preston

How to find the newsworthy quote and quoter:

1. Define "Clues," writing definitions in answer column over numbered dashes.
2. Transfer letters to numbered squares in diagram: the black squares separate words.
3. When pattern is completed, quotation can be read from left to right. The first letters of the answer words, reading down, form an acrostic yielding the speaker's name and the topic of the quotation.

The Neighborhood

By Jerry Van Amerongen

Emerson dabbles with his new body-cleansing system.

Shelley doesn't want to be a career woman anymore.

Cynthia dreamed it was the year 2010 and she still questioned her antiperspirant.

After having a few drinks too many, two fellows went to a zoo and stood watching a lion. All at once the animal let out an ear-splitting roar.

"Come on; let's go!" said one of the men.

"Go ahead," said the other. "I'm gonna stay for the movie."

Laura Lee Kirchner, Louisville

Childhood: The time of life when you make funny faces in the mirror.

Middle age: The time of life when the mirror gets even.

Larry D. Joyce, Corydon, Ind.

A truck driver, eating at a diner, asked the waitress if it was OK to eat french fries with fingers. "I suppose so," she said, "but I've never seen any french fries with fingers."

Opal Smith, Louisville

The Super Bowl was over. The rabid fan turned off his television with a sigh, looked around the room — and discovered that his wife had left him in November.

Claudine Rogers, Greenfield, Tenn.

Wife to husband: "Please take Junior to the zoo."

Husband: "Nothing doing. If they want him, they can come get him."

Greg Schulz, New Albany, Ind.

You know you're getting older when you have too much room in the house and too little in the medicine cabinet.

James E. Atz, Milltown, Ind.

A young father knew he'd reached the limit when he overheard himself yelling up the stairs: "OK. This is the last time I'm going to yell at you kids for the last time."

J. Runner, Louisville
